INTRODUCTION

Innovative experiments and their results to improve the quality of education in higher education institutions and ensure their active participation in the reforms carried out in the country. It is natural for anyone working in the higher education system or in various spheres of society today to have moral qualities, that is, upbringing. Duty is determined to achieve the goal set for the person helps to keep going. The importance of the development of internal communication of higher educational institutions as a factor in increasing the efficiency of their versatile activities is scientifically and theoretically substantiated.

For this, of course, from the corner the external ethical features should be: - First of all, moral qualities. When we say virtues, we mean it is the intention of goodness in the mind and activity of man. Everybody in this place it is also about thinking correctly in the field and acting on reason.

- Responsibility is now the focus of everyone's attention is a positive trait that has become entrenched. Working responsibly is your own helps to easily overcome the difficulties of the work.

- Mind and perception. About this enlightened poet and writer Abdullah Avloni it is well described in the book "Turkish Gulistan Jewish Morality" "Intelligence and intelligence means to be open-minded, good-natured, intelligent. Perception and intelligence is the razvai rizwan of good deeds, the light of exemplary eyes is merciful. It takes effort and perseverance to be knowledgeable it is essential that the mind and intellect be as healthy as the dead.

- Mental education. This is about the representatives of the Jadid movement one is Abdurauf Fitrat in his work entitled "Family" will pass. "Mental training, that is, the training of the human mind, is the training of the human mind, the intellect is to perfect perception to know well, to learn well, and to be perfect to think. Before doing something, a person thinks about it, the idea then applies. That is the thought, the movement of the mind "It's called a discussion." The first of independence for the upbringing of a harmoniously developed person in our country began to pay attention to the stages. It's about a perfect person we can better understand it by the following sentences. "The sense of peaceful enlightenment in the blood of the nation has been Uzbek for centuries the people were also enthusiastic. We call this in the Muslim East "Mualim-us soniy" Abu Nasr al-Farabi in his book The City of Noble People we can observe. In the play, every citizen of the society, especially the youth that the position should be virtuous regardless of social origin is emphasized. A virtuous child is good at all the rules of his state knows, applies to him, becomes a master of his profession, the homeland when necessary sacrifices his life for. Good children will respect each other oriental delicacy, kindness between mother and child, teacher and student will be". Of course, as a person grows up, he will find his way in this life should be the goal. Patience, perseverance and of course, there must be devotion to their profession. In turn, students have their own they are fluent in several languages to be a mature expert in their fields it also requires knowledge. The richness of language and the abundance of vocabulary strengthen the foundation of the student's future. Science is perfect man as a person develops his creative thinking through learning by cultivating his inner world through his moral relations goes. This is certainly the case when it comes to the role of duty in human life how great is his work in his heart, and the result is himself and the great philosopher Abu Nasr Farabi's "City of Noble People" through the following thoughts the traits and vices of the governors are mentioned. "The governors, the original noble to have glorious work and life experience as elders need The more this is followed in the work, the more accurate it will be. If the rulers are uneducated, according to Plato, then it is their business both the affairs of the citizens are in crisis. He is an example speaks of the Greek rulers. If they are science subordinates and themselves in the absence of the owner ruined their work and destroyed the cities they would be. "

Potential universities in the developed countries of the world developed by and higher education institutions in many countries special attention is paid to the following in the criteria for determining the intellectual potential of students recognized by

- Analytical thinking of the student
- Critical thinking of the student
- The student's ability to synthesize
- Creative thinking of the student
- The student's problem-solving skills.

The intellectual level of future cadres through these criteria identified and evaluated as high-potential professionals. An integral part of the concept of student intellectual culture knowledge, thinking and worldview. Ethical duty and morality are the students' own in the higher education system devotion to work, homeland and family, service through duty and life. We can see this in the strengthening of ethical issues has been an important issue in its own right. Our President Shavkat Mirziyev said the following about the work: "At the same time, honest and with fruitful work, scientific and creative achievements, loyal service to the motherland to support our brave sons who are an example to all and encouragement to be the focus of our state and society necessary " Science is a lamp that melts human spirituality. Everyone through science he can realize his dream aspirations. The lack of knowledge is different causes defects. Because idleness makes people different leads to the commission of crimes. Crimes in our society also has a high duty to acquire knowledge of things in order to prevent a decline to ensure the happiness of his family.

In the higher education system, students had their own work and teachers it is permissible to be respectful. This is what our great scholar Burhaniddin Al- Margilani's Thoughts on Science, Scholar and Student through his poems in arabic the student expressed his wonderful ideas about science, as if through these thoughts as crushed today. For example, when he talks about a scientist, in social life that the way a scientist behaves has a great influence, the religion of a scientist with a perverted faith, about the corruption of the Shari'a, science and the people. The belief of the scholar and calls the perverted scholar "the grave of corruption" (great corruption).

Margilan says that the harm of a corrupt scientist will be worse than the damage to the wind, and that people will be forced to study science promotes. Al-Margilani commands strict respect for the teacher. In the east there are guidelines on respecting the teacher, and so is the scholar strictly adheres to the rules. In ignorance, according to the scientist the rest of the ignorant man is dead as alive. A person of high spirituality educated, conscientious, strong-willed, and hardworking. Such people they act on their own strength and will and cannot be controlled by intimidation, rape, or coercion the concept of dependence and slavery is flesh. People from such people heroes emerge. When we say patriotism, first of all, the country responsibility and duty to the motherland are understood the more he understands his destiny, his future, the more he has a sense of patriotism the homeland will not be sold, the homeland will not be bought, on credit Movlono Fuzuli's "I have one life, I have a thousand.

If I had a life, I would have spent it all for the motherland." His words are an invaluable tool in educating young people in the spirit of patriotism. It is also on the decline in crime among young people their moral perfection is also important. Especially in them a man of strong conscience, courage, humility, duty, high spirituality the role of the book is also great for him to grow up as among the many works I will be who reads a book, or in practice without a book there are notions that everything can be done, in fact it is ideas lose their relevance over time because in the acquisition of specialization you will need a foundation, which you can master without reading a book. Among the peoples who have lived on the territory of Uzbekistan since ancient times spiritual, mental, spiritual and moral of the people of physical culture have known since ancient times to increase perfection. In the Avesto "In ancient times, preparing children for military service and physically hardening has long been a habit. By the way, in the process of military training.

The children run on horseback, hunt, fencing and shield themselves from their opponents to be able to defend, to swim in the water, to run away, to jump, to throw a spear the study was mandatory. " Of course, as long as life consists of various difficulties and trials starting from the human brain to overcome them and take their place preparation is a must. Of course, as long as life consists of various difficulties and trials starting from the human brain to overcome them and take their place. It is necessary to be prepared. Moral education is a person's inner self it enriches the world, and as a person works on his morals, his shortcomings will disappear. Abdurauf Fitrat is about to take note "A person befriends someone and respects those who are greater than he is if he does, he will learn from them and try to imitate them. He wants to move; to walk, to walk it must be strengthened and used. "At the present time, student labor, first of all in educational activities, is a science mastering

The basics, building professional skills, arises and improves in scientific research. Read a professional with special characteristics for knowledgeable students activity.

The goal of the task is to show the features of the profession of a music teacher, to reveal the main components of his activity. This goal is concretized in solving the following tasks: to reveal the creative nature of the music teacher's activity, to show what abilities he must have for its implementation, to determine what knowledge, skills and abilities a teacher should possess while working at school, to consider some specific types of music teacher's activities.

The basics of student work in production practice. The indicator is independent of the knowledge acquired in the learning process in business activities level of application, contribution to labor productivity, quality and efficiency of work performed, strict adherence to labor discipline adherence and so on. In short, through music people develop spirituality sophistication love of profession and most importantly a sense of patriotism. The role of music teachers is invaluable.
