

MUSIC CULTURE DURING THE FORMATION OF THE UZBEK PEOPLE (XI-XV CENTURIES)

Abdupatto Akhadjonovich Ibragimov**; Shakhlo Abduvohid Kizi Toshpulatova**<sup>**</sup>; Bakhtiyor Yakubjan Ogli Giyasov***<sup>***</sup>

*Head

Department of Music Education.
Namangan State University,
Namangan City, UZBEKISTAN
Email Id: abdupattoibragimov61@gmail.com

**Master Student

Namangan State University,
Namangan City, UZBEKISTAN
Email Id: lochichi01@gmail.com

***Master Student

Namangan State University,
Namangan City, UZBEKISTAN
Email Id: bahtiyorjon@gmail.com

DOI: 10.5958/2249-7315.2022.00037.5

---

ABSTRACT

Conflicts in Central Asia in the 13th and 14th centuries hindered the development of culture. Especially during the Mongol invasion (13th century), when large cities, including Bukhara, were completely or partially destroyed, cultural life declined. With the unification of Central Asia under the rule of Timur, a new rise in culture and art began in the second half of the XIV century.

KEYWORDS: Music, Art, Works, Song, Tradition, Culture.

---

REFERENCES

1. Hammidov H. Avesto Fans. Tashkent: Named Abdulla Qadiri; 2001. p.56.
2. Abdullaev R. The peoples of Central Asia are a ceremonial music. Tashkent; 1994, p.29.
3. Hammidov H. History of traditional culture of traditional singing. Tashkent: Teacher; 1996.
4. Utodilov A. History of execution during Uzbek public instradies. Tashkent: Teacher; 1995. p.54.
5. Matyokubov O. Homobot. Tashkent: Music; 2004. p.45.
6. Jabborov A. Musical Drama and Comedy are creative in the creativity of Uzbek composers. Tashkent: Ghafur Ghulam; 2000. p.16.