

CHILDREN'S LITERATURE AS A KIND OF SPECIAL (BRANCH) LITERATURE

E.E. Azmieva***

*Associate Professor of the “Russian Language and Teaching Methodology”,
Department of Tashkent State Pedagogical University named after Nizami,

UZBEKISTAN

Email id: azmieva_@umail.uz

DOI: 10.5958/2249-7315.2022.00091.0

---

ABSTRACT

Children's literature is highlighted as a sort of special (sectoral) literature in this article. Cognitive interest in Russian folklore - as an aptitude, evolving into a professional and personal self-educational need; actualization (in tasks and theoretical and practical works) and socialization (at various communicative levels) by future teachers of Russian language and literature of "their" cognitively activities.

KEYWORDS: Narration, Active Interest Of Future Teachers, Russian Folklore, Self-Realization.

---

REFERENCES:

1. Talipova RT. Children's Literature: Textbook. Tashkent: Teacher. 2001. p.103.
2. Tillashev HH. General Pedagogical and Didactic Ideas of the near and Middle East Encyclopedic Scientists of the Middle Ages. Tashkent: Science. 1989. p.145
3. Anikin VP. Traditions of Russian folklore. Moscow, 1986. p.217
4. Turbovskoy YS. Means and methods of pedagogical influence. Moscow, 1988. p.200
5. Tursunov I. Organizational and pedagogical basis for improving teacher training. Tashkent: Teacher. 1989. p.80.