

VERBALIZATION OF THE CONCEPT “LOVE/MUHABBAT” IN THE PROVERBS OF ENGLISH AND KARAKALPAK LANGUAGES

Sadullaeva Alfiya Nizamaddinovna*

*Assistant,

Department of English Language and Literature,
KSU named after Berdakh,
UZBEKISTAN

DOI: 10.5958/2249-7315.2022.00167.8

ABSTRACT

This article examines the concept LOVE/MUHABBAT in English and Karakalpak proverbs. The main purpose of this research is to study the meanings of the concept ‘LOVE/MUHABBAT’ in the languages being studied and the ways in which they are used semantically. We can learn different languages by studying the lifestyle, stereotypes, customs and traditions of that people. In our research, it was found that the proverbs of the two people differ conceptually with similarities and differences. This difference is inextricably linked with the cultural and national features of the two people.

KEYWORDS: Concept, Phraseology, Proverbs, Culture, Stereotype, Morality, Conceptualization, National, Language Units, Variability, Emotion, Paremiology, Linguocultureme.

REFERENCES

1. Воробьев В.В. Лингвокультурология (теория и методы) / В.В. Воробьев. – М., 1997. – 256 с.
2. Кошарная С.А. В зеркале лексикона: Введение в культурологию: учеб. пособие / С.А. Кошарная. – Белгород, 1999. – 245 с.
3. Маслова В.А. Лингвокультурология: учеб. пособие для студентов высш. учеб. заведений / В.А. Маслова. – М.: Издательский центр «Академия», 2001. – С. 30.
4. Опарина Е.О. Лингвокультурология: Методологические основания и базовые понятия / Е.О. Опарина // Язык и культура. Сборник обзоров. Вып.2. – М.: РАН, 1999. – С. 27–36.
5. English proverbs, ‘Love and Heart’. – URL: <https://www.native-english.ru/proverbs/category/love-and-heart> (13.04.2020)
6. Collins, V. H. A Book of English Proverbs / V. H. Collins. – London, 1960. P. 31.