ABSTRACT

At the end of the XX century, the influence of mankind on the processes in the biosphere reached its apogee. Currently, there are local and spiritual crisis situations of the environment. The scientific, theoretical, practical, educational, cultural and informational significance of ecology in this difficult period is increasing. Proper assessment of the state of the environment, ensuring timely implementation of necessary measures are inextricably linked with the level of development of environmental knowledge. In the article, the importance of enriching ecological knowledge is investigated.
